

The Evolution, Cognition, and Culture

Bagel Hour

Presents

Cristina Moya

Harvard University

December 1, 2015

2:00-3:30 pm

Beach Hall, Rm 404

The evolution and ontogeny of ethnic phenomena

Dr. Cristina Moya is an evolutionary anthropologist interested in humans' adaptations to culturally-structured worlds. Her research examines humans' psychological adaptations for processing ethnic social categories using cross-cultural and developmental research in the United States and among agro-pastoralists in the Peruvian altiplano along the Quechua-Aymara linguistic border.

Sponsored by the Department of Anthropology and the James Barnett Endowment for Humanistic Anthropology

For more information please contact Richard Sosis (richard.sosis@uconn.edu).